REASONS FOR ALLOWANCE

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: the reference to Jang (1002476860000) does not show grinding brown rice to a particular ground weight level, but discloses pounding hulled rice into brown rice. This process does not include removing part of the outmost skin of the brown rice. Grinding, germinating and drying provides for a product as in paragraph 0025 of applicants' specification. If the brown rice is ground below the lower limit the texture of the rice becomes rough and hard so that it is difficult to eat and the brown rice needs a longer soaking time before cooking. If the brown rice is ground to a level above the upper limit, the embryo of the brown rice is removed, and no germination can occur (0025, lines 6-10). Also, table 3 (0055) and fig. 2, compares germinated brown rice according to the invention to other germinated brown rice. Differences were seen in hardness of the rice, thereby making a different product because it has superior softness than the other germinated brown rice.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
